Professional Profile

Junior front end developer, new to the industry having re-skilled from the hospitality sector via an intensive 12-week coding boot camp. I specialize in JavaScript ES6, HTML and CSS and am looking for my first entry level role in the technology industry.

I aspire to be a front end web developer and am about to complete a 12-week intensive coding bootcamp where I have learnt to code in JavaScript ES6, HTML and CSS. The course is full on, with 12 hours of teaching time per week and 15 hours of coding time on top of that, during which, I have worked on 12 individual and collaborative projects.

I bring with me a good combination of coding skills and a great people and stakeholder experience from previous roles in the hospitality industry, where I learnt how to see things from the customer perspective and deal with all types and level of individual.

I am a quick learner, a good communicator and a very hard worker, as evident by my juggling of a part time job and the many hours needed to really get the best out of the coding bootcamp.
